REMOTE TEAM PARCOURS

The virtual Team Parcours takes place within the framework of a video call (without app) moderated by us. All participants will receive an email with an invitation link for an online platform (and a list of working materials if applicable). We will form a team of maximum 8-10 people per moderation room, which is supervised by our guide. We will explain the teams the different challenges that require intensive cooperation, creativity and communication. For example, the teams find their way through a labyrinth together, separate relevant from unimportant information during "Team MIND", build an impulse reaction, open a "mystery BOX" together, try to put up the very highest "Team TOWERBUILDING", become professionals during "Team ACTIVITY" or paint a picture together across the screen.

REMOTE IMPULSE CHAIN

In the run-up to the event, we make sure that your home office staff find out which household items they should use to create their part of the joint chain reaction. Via video conferencing and technical support, we then help the participants at the event to merge their individual reactions into a virtual chain of impulses. The coordination of the interfaces between the individual reactions or team members in chat rooms set up by us is pure teamwork. The grand finale is the overall reaction, which we cut together for you at lightning speed and present in the video conference.

On request, we will be happy to send specific materials to the participants in advance. In this way the teams are confronted with individual challenges!
